Interdisciplinary Studies in Liberal Arts and Sciences

Cross-Departmental Degree Programs

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences offers graduate degrees that cross multiple departments and units. For information on these, see:

- Center for East Asian Studies;
- Center for Global and International Studies (http://catalog.ku.edu/liberal-arts-sciences/global-international-studies);
- Indigenous Studies Program (http://catalog.ku.edu/liberal-arts-sciences/indigenous-studies);
- Center for Latin American & Caribbean Studies (http://catalog.ku.edu/liberal-arts-sciences/latin-american-caribbean-studies);
- Museum Studies Program (http://catalog.ku.edu/liberal-arts-sciences/museum-studies); and
- Center for Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies (http://catalog.ku.edu/liberal-arts-sciences/russian-east-european-eurasian-studies).

Cross-departmental studies that have no defined degree program may be authorized upon petition. See Interdisciplinary Studies in the Graduate Studies section of the online catalog for more information.

Graduate students in degree programs may add a cross-departmental certificate in the following areas:

- American Studies
- African Studies
- Brazilian Studies
- Central American and Mexican Studies
- Chemical Biology
- City and County Management
- Community Health and Development
- Environmental Assessment
- Gerontology
- Global and International Studies
- Indigenous Studies
- Museum Studies
- Peace and Conflict Studies
- Performance Management
- Professional Workplace Communication
- Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies
- Women, Gender and Sexuality Studies

See Graduate Certificate Programs in the Graduate Studies section of the online catalog.