MASTER OF ARTS IN MUSEUM STUDIES

Museum Studies Graduate Program

These are exciting and challenging times for museums -- longstanding premises are being questioned, and many established practices are being reconsidered. Museum professionals today work in an environment far different than that of even a few years ago. Emerging technologies now allow museums to bring their collections and their programs to audiences well beyond the confines of museum buildings. With this expanded reach, museums are preparing for dramatic changes in the age, ethnicity, education, and economic status of their audiences. Exhibitions and public programs are evolving; more than ever, educators, curators, and designers are seeking ways to engage visitors in complex issues of broad concern. Behind the scenes, collection stewardship is being reevaluated in response to practical, political, and ethical concerns. Additionally, unprecedented scholarly attention is being directed toward the ways in which museums have acquired their collections, represented their subjects, and engaged with the public. In the midst of this transformation, long-standing assumptions about museums' public value have been called into question, requiring museum leaders to craft new collaborations and community partnerships in order to survive.

To advance and thrive in this dynamic environment, twenty-first century museum professionals will need knowledge informed by practice, imagination tempered by rigor, and leadership stimulated by collaboration. This is what we can offer at the University of Kansas. Students take advantage of the superb facilities at KU, including the Dole Institute of Politics, Natural History Museum, Spencer Museum of Art, Spencer Research Library, and Wilcox Classical Museum, as well as nearby historical agencies, specialized libraries, and museums.

Admission to Graduate Studies

An applicant seeking to pursue graduate study in the College may be admitted as either a degree-seeking or non-degree seeking student. Policies and procedures of Graduate Studies govern the process of Graduate admission. These may be found in the Graduate Studies (http://catalog.ku.edu/graduate-studies) section of the online catalog.

Please consult the Departments & Programs (http://catalog.ku.edu/liberal-arts-sciences) section of the online catalog for information regarding program-specific admissions criteria and requirements. Special admissions requirements pertain to Interdisciplinary Studies degrees, which may be found in the Graduate Studies section of the online catalog.

Admission to the Museum Studies M.A. Program

To be considered for admission to regular graduate status in the Museum Studies program, a student must hold a baccalaureate degree and have earned at least a B (3.0) grade-point average in previous academic work. Acceptance in the program is determined by the Museum Studies Admissions Committee. A student interested in applying for admission must submit the following:

1. A completed application, along with a non-refundable application fee, submitted online through the Office of Graduate Studies (http://www.graduate.ku.edu/apply).

2. Transcripts from all undergraduate and graduate institutions attended. You may upload a scanned version of your official transcript from your undergraduate institution to the online application, however, official transcripts will be required upon admission to the program. Please note: A printout from a student portal is NOT considered to be an official copy of your transcript. In addition, please calculate (http://www.clas.ku.edu/undergrad/tools/gpa) your Junior/Senior GPA and include it on your resume.

3. A statement of academic objectives. This component of the application is very important. It should be a thoughtful, well-written, 2-3 page statement addressing such topics as (a) what about museums and museum studies that particularly interests you, (b) your career goals, and the area of museum work that most attracts you, (c) your relevant experience and background, (d) the match of KU’s program to your interests, and (e) anything else you think is important to your application. If you feel that your academic record does not reflect your potential, or if your test scores are below expectations, be certain to provide an explanation of any extenuating circumstances related to this issue.

4. 3 letters of recommendation, one of which must be from an academic source (Please use KU’s online letter of recommendation system when you apply).

5. GRE scores. To submit scores, use University code 6871.

6. A resume or curriculum vitae listing your employment history, scholarships/fellowships, and awards.

7. A sample of your written academic work (10 pages maximum, please).

8. For international students only, TOEFL scores or acceptable alternative to demonstrate English proficiency (http://graduate.ku.edu/english-proficiency-requirements).

9. For international students only, proof of financial support. Applications will not be considered without financial documentation.

Students are admitted to the M.A. program only in the fall semester. The Museum Studies Admissions Committee will begin considering applicants for fall admission in January and will accept applications until the deadline for the fall semester on May 1. Students who submit their application by January 1 will be given priority, and will be notified of admission decisions by early March. Applications completed after the January 1 deadline are much less likely to be considered for scholarship support and may be placed on an admissions waiting list.
