Middle East Studies Minor

Why study the “Middle East”? The countries within and neighboring what is commonly referred to as the Middle East continue to play an important role in global affairs and dynamics. The economic and business elements of the region along with its political, cultural and social realities factor heavily into contemporary world developments. Within such a context, for intrinsic and extrinsic reasons, there are strong reasons to focus one’s study on this area of the world. KU combines education in Arabic, Persian, Turkish and Hebrew with a rich selection of courses on or related to the region, including courses in Islamic studies, language, culture and art, history, and contemporary social and political dynamics. The minor also complements many majors within the College as well as other degrees across the University. The area’s languages and knowledge of cultures, society and politics in the region can prepare students for careers in business and the private sector, foreign or civil service, or jobs with non-profit organizations.

These courses allow students to deepen their knowledge of the countries and issues in the region. Students must take at least one course from each emphasis—i.e., social science and humanities, as listed below— but can choose to take three courses from one emphasis and one from the other or take two from each.

Regularly offered and upcoming elective options are:

Social science emphasis: (minimum 3 credit hours)
- ANTH 303 Peoples and Cultures of North Africa and the Middle East
- ANTH 372 Religion, Power, and Sexuality in Arab Societies
- GIST 424 Nationalism(s) in Turkey
- GIST 530 Politics and Society in the Contemporary Persianate World
- GIST 624 Social Movements in the Middle East
- GIST 633 Iran, Turkey, and the Kurds
- JWSH 329 Israeli-Palestinian Conflict: An Introduction
- JWSH 410 Israel: From Idea to State
- JWSH 414 Israel/Palestine: The War of 1948
- JWSH 420 Government of Israel
- JWSH 426 Polls and Public Opinion in Israel
- JWSH 440 International Relations of the Middle-East

Language Option: A student pursuing a Middle East Studies minor may also use one 300-level or above ARAB, PERS, TURK, or HEBR language course as an elective that counts toward three credit hours of “Humanities emphasis.”
