

Minor in Psychology

Why Minor in Psychology?

A Minor in Psychology will add a strong emphasis to any degree plan at the University of Kansas. Our courses offer real world and practical applications to enhance your major(s) of choice and demonstrate to graduate programs and employers that you bring a unique understanding of statistical and research methodology, critical analysis, and the complexities of human nature.

We invite you to explore our minor further by visiting our department site (<http://psych.ku.edu>) and meeting with our Psychology Advisors, Kat McCreery (<http://psych.ku.edu/kat-mccreery>) or Kristina Youngblood (<http://psych.ku.edu/kristina-youngblood>).

Declaring a Psychology Minor

To declare the Psychology minor, you may obtain the "Declaration of MINOR Field of Study" form from Strong 109 or Fraser 426. It will need filled out, signed by Departmental staff in Fraser 426 and then turned into Strong 109 by you for processing.
